2006 House of Assembly elections— Nominations Announced

When nominations closed at 12 noon yesterday, Friday 3 March, 95 candidates (65 men and 30 women) had been nominated to contest the 2006 House of Assembly elections to be held on Saturday 18 March. This compares with 112 candidates (69 men and 43 women) in 2002 and 138 candidates (95 men and 43 women) in 1998.

On a divisional basis the candidate numbers are as follows—

Bass	19 candidates	Franklin	18 candidates
Braddon	16 candidates	Lyons	18 candidates
Denison	24 candidates

A list of candidates for each Division follows. Registered parties and groups are shown in ballot paper order, with ungrouped candidates to appear in the last column. Candidates are listed in alphabetical order within their registered party, group or ungrouped column. It should be remembered that names in each column on the ballot paper are rotated and may not appear in this order.

Electors who, for a valid reason, cannot get to a polling place on polling day must vote early. This can be done in two ways – either in person, at any of the following places during normal business hours, or by post.

Pre-polling places—

Hobart: Elizabeth Street level, AMP Building, 86 Collins Street

Launceston: Electoral Office, 87 George Street

Burnie: Harris Building, Cnr Cattley and Alexander Streets

Devonport: City Council Chambers, Fenton Way (from Tuesday 14 March — Friday 17 March, 9am-4.30pm)

Interstate: Any Australian Electoral Commission Division Office 13 23 26

Postal vote applications are available at any post office or electoral office – or by phoning 13 23 26.

ENDS — 1.00pm Saturday 4 March 2006
